DEED OF CREDITS.

By Associated Press.

Paris, July 10.—The Navy league has received a dispatch from Admiral Jaurès, commander of the marine forces at Tahiti, P. I., to the effect that [illegible] to the things that have asserted you [illegible] part of the country, I wish to say a few words, but I shall not abuse. If we refrain from filling our speeches with abuse, then when these people come back to the American Trades Union, we shall have no apologies to make. My only regret is that at this late day matters which should have been kept within the walls of labor must be brought to public attention. I could not allow the American Federation of Labor to be abused without protesting. I have always pleaded for unity."

He then gave a history of the American Federation of Labor since its birth in 1881 and recited how it had taken in all of the Trades Unions of the east, south, north and a number of those in the west. He then recited the history of the Western Labor union and the Western Miners union, and contended that if it was right for the west to organize separate unions, it would also be right for the other sections of the country to do likewise.

After dwelling at length upon the Leadville and other strikes, he came on down to the recent labor meetings held in Denver, and after referring to the change of the name of the Western Labor union, he contended that if the union was in the right when it was first formed, it was in the wrong now, because it was attempting to assume national jurisdiction, and if it was in the right now, it was wrong when it was organized for secretarial purposes only.

He criticised Debbs by saying "I have heard of some men who have declared for international Socialism in one breath and declared for division of American labor in the next. When you want to unite the workingmen of the world, lets begin by obtaining unity at home." When he referred to international socialism the audience which had been often displayed its disapproval of his remarks, broke out with continuous cheering, and it was some time before he could complete the sentence.

In discussing the civic federation, he stated that it was composed of some capitalists and some well known laborers. Its only object is when employer and employe have fallen out, to see that a conference shall be had. It does nothing else, and 20 men of any organization could do its work. He held that politicians state that the economic conditions are reflected in the social, political and moral institutions of the country. The economic conditions reflect its evils in those other institutions. To improve the conditions of those other institutions it would be necessary to improve the economic conditions, and that is just what the Trades unions are doing. In this he held that the Trades union assumed and filled the place claimed by the Socialist. The only difference being that they claim the remedy is in the ballot box, while we claim that it is in the unions. Mr. Gompers during the entire evening realized that he was speaking to a crowd practically in opposition to him.

FLOOD SITUATION IN VARIOUS SECTIONS

By Associated Press.

Topeka, Kan., July 10.—The water in the river at this place is higher tonight than it was during the floods of two weeks ago. It has been rising steadily since last night and now the gauge shows 14 feet 6 inches. The tracks on the street railway bridge have been twisted until they curve sharply. The supports on the bridge are weakened. If they fail to hold the big Molan arch bridge will be seriously damaged. A bridge over the river at Grantville was washed away early this morning and this afternoon an incompleted bridge below this city was carried off by high water.

At Manhattan the Blue river is nearly 20 feet above the low water mark and is steadily rising. At Lawrence the dam is much weakened and a large force of men is kept at work endeavoring to protect it.

The passenger service on the Rock Island has been in a demoralized condition all day. Washouts at Beatrice, Fairbury and Clifton have tied up the road so that the trains cannot be run from the Missouri river to the west. The Chicago-Denver trains via Topeka have been run from Manhattan to Limon over the Union Pacific today. It is announced that all the Rock Island trains will be running on schedule time again by tomorrow morning.

The Republican river at Concordia is four miles wide tonight. Thus far the dam there has failed to show any signs of weakness.

The Missouri Pacific trains on the central branch are yet in a state of blockade by the high water.

ABOUT KANSAS CITY.

By Associated Press.

Kansas City, July 10.—Thus far the damage in the vicinity of the two Kansas cities is confined to the lowlands across the Missouri in Harlem, at Kaw Point on the Kaw river and in the west bottoms where a few dollars are flooded. The Kaw is higher than at any time since 1891, and at Kaw Point, a little settlement inhabited by poor river front people, the shanties are surrounded by skiffs and boats are being used. At Harlem where the houses are on slightly elevated ground it will take two feet more of water to do any serious harm. In the west bottoms, at most of the large warehouses, the sewers have been plugged to keep out the water and but little damage has resulted.

IN NEBRASKA.

By Associated Press.

Omaha, July 10.—The flood situation in several parts of the state began to clear up today with the ceasing of the rains. Most of the trains coming into the city during the day were late but all were able to get into the city. The railroads have experienced serious washouts during the past few days and have had hard work of men replacing the damage in the track. The tracks between the bridge and union station in this city are being repaired and they will be ready for use tomorrow or next day. All the roads entering Omaha report improved conditions all over the state.

Washington, July 10.—Secretary Root has received a cablegram from Acting Governor Wright in the Philippines, making a general denial of the charge of proselyting by teachers among Catholic students in the Philippine schools. The cablegram shows a complete investigation was made of the allegations.

BAZAAR ALL RIGHT BUT RAFFLE WAS NOT

By Associated Press.

London, July 10.—The coronation bazaar, which is probably the biggest affair of its kind ever held, and an organization which was chiefly due to the energy of Mrs. Cornelius Adair, Mrs. Joseph H. Choate, wife of the United States ambassador, and other prominent Americans, was opened by Queen Alexandra this afternoon. The bazaar was held in the Botanical gardens, Regents park. It was in aid of the hospital for sick children. Over 5,000 tickets, a guinea each, were sold in advance.

One of the features of the affair was to have been the raffling of a number of motor cars, pianos and various articles of jewelry. For these tickets to the value of thousands of pounds had already been sold here on the continent and in America but the police intervened. In the house of commons yesterday evening the home secretary, Dr. Richter, announced that the proposed raffles were a violation of the law and that they would not be permitted.

PRESIDENT POWERS SETTLES ANTHRACITE STRIKE

DISCUSSED THE HISTORY OF AMERICAN FEDERATION OF LABOR.

DEFENDED DEBS

Criticism of Action of Debs and the Socialists—Listeners N. Y. Times Showed Their Opposition.

Special to the Gazette.

Denver, July 10.—A large crowd of laboring people listened attentively to President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor as he discussed the past history of that organization and made an eloquent appeal for the labor organizations of the west that are not affiliated with his organization to join the same. In his discussion he treated the many criticisms that have recently been hurled at his order by the western labor unions and kindred societies, and he related many incidents of unwritten history.

His crowd was opposed to him, and interrupted him with questions during his entire speech. In discussing the Leadville strike, and the criticism that has been made against his order, he stated that during that strike a committee from the Western Federation of Miners came to Cincinnati and pleaded with the Federation of Labor to adopt a resolution lending the Western Federation of Labor the moral and financial support of the American Federation of Labor. He said that the committee of miners positively stated to the Federation of Labor that they knew that the financial aid could not be given; that the committee of miners wanted the resolution passed because of its moral effect.

Mr. Gompers contended that the committee of miners pledged itself to protect the Federation of Labor in the peculiar resolutions, and then immediately afterwards began a series of criticisms of the federation. He said that the Western Federation of Miners joined the American Federation of Labor after the Leadville strike had been begun, and they left it before the strike was completed. He held that the Federation of Labor does not practice the distribution of funds during the strike, but leaves that for the various organizations represented in the Federation to distribute among their striking members as they deem best.

In discussing the criticism the Western Miners union has made against his organization, over its position in the Coeur d'Alene matter, he made even more startling statements than he did in the Leadville strike matter. He had in his possession letters and receipts from the officers of the Western Federation of Miners acknowledging the receipt of large sums of money from the Federation of Labor, which the receipts stated were to be used in the defense of the miners arrested in connection with the Coeur d'Alene strike, and also in assisting in the compiling of evidence for the Congressional investigation which followed. He held that his organization had done all in its power to assist both in the Leadville strike and in the Coeur d'Alene strike, and he stated that an organization had rested under wrongful criticisms and misleading statements for six years, but he proposed to tell the truth about the matter and let the people be the judges.

In discussing Socialism he scored the leaders of the Socialist party for advocating international socialism and also advocating several national labor organizations. He claimed that united organized labor will bring about the same results as are contended for by the Socialist leaders. He criticised those leaders for dwelling at length upon future realization and termed them "Utopian dreamers."

The first part of his speech was devoted to a brief review of the struggle of laboring masses. He discussed the different systems of labor inaugurated in the past centuries. Finally the wage labor system was inaugurated.

When the Trades Union came into existence they found the condition of the laborer in this system depraved and degraded. The Trades Union was the first factor which gave encouragement to the condition of the laborer. He then discussed the question of unity among laborers, and held that the essential thing is for laborers to unite. He next discussed the efforts of the organized labor movement, which stand for justice, equity, universal brotherhood, and the improved conditions of all laboring classes. He held that the movement had been growing as the minds of the laborers grew.

"This question of the labor movement involves strikes and boycotts. No man is a lover of strikes. Strikes should be avoided when possible. Unions avoid strikes more than any other factor in the human society. Myself am not in favor of strikes, but when labor organizations must strike, strike hard, strike long and strike effectually. Abraham Lincoln once said, 'Thank God that we live in a country where it is possible for laboring men to say stop!' and the machinery of industry will stop!' He showed what a gift become of the people if they should surrender their rights to strike. 'Every labor organization should exert their right to strike, and they should continually demand larger shares of the product of labor.'"

Passing on down to the labor situation of the west he said: "In regard to the things that have asserted you in that part of the country, I wish to say a few words, but I shall not abuse. If we refrain from filling our speeches with abuse, then when these people come back to the American Trades Union, we shall have no apologies to make. My only regret is that at this late day matters which should have been kept within the walls of labor must be brought to public attention. I could not allow the American Federation of Labor to be abused without protesting. I have always pleaded for unity."

100 MEN ENTOMBED IN PENNSYLVANIA COAL MINE

MANY MEN ALREADY DEAD.

WORK OF RESCUE.

By Associated Press.

Johnstown, Pa., July 10.—At 11:20 the first four victims were brought to the surface from the Klondike section. They were William Robinson, who was unconscious when found; John Retallic, alive and in pretty good shape, and two unknown Slavs, both alive but unconscious.

Dr. John L. Lowman of this city, who came up with the men, said he passed 25 dead bodies, some of them in sitting postures.

Johnstown, Pa., July 10.—Two hundred coal miners were entombed today by an explosion in the Cambria Steel company's rolling mill mine, whose main shaft opens within the limits of this city, and 125 are probably dead.

The mine is one of the largest in the country and today 500 men were at work there. When the news of the disaster reached here it spread like wildfire and in less than a quarter of an hour, the point, an open space at the junction of the Conemaugh and the Stony Creek, was crowded with weeping women and children.

Brave attempts at rescuing were made. Mining Engineer Moore and his assistant, Al. G. Prosser, tried to make some headway toward the imprisoned miners three and a half miles away, but they were driven back by the deadly gases.

Richard Bennett and John Meyers, miners, who were in the mine at the time of the explosion, but who escaped unhurt, went back two miles to see what assistance could be rendered, but they, too, were driven back by the damp and reached the dark threshold just in time only to fall unconscious. Then the attempt to do any rescue work from the main opening was given up, and it was shifted to Mill Creek, five miles from this city.

The rescuers were followed by hundreds of relatives and friends. It was still believed that all of the miners at work were affected, business in the city was practically at a standstill and men went out to be of assistance, or watch the scene or to wait with anxious staring eyes for the first stiff form to be carried from the opening in the hill.

During the afternoon it became known that many men had escaped from that drift No. 6, known as the Klondike, was practically the only one affected. But here 200 men were at work and still the women watched and waited for the end.

From 1:30 in the afternoon until 8 o'clock this evening the work of the searching parties was in vain but at the first faint ray of hope came when the bodies of a man and a boy were brought out into the daylight, unconscious, but alive. Then at 11:30 came four more men, unconscious, who were brought to the surface, but a doctor who came with the men reported finding 25 dead bodies on the way.

President Powell, Stackhouse, in a statement issued at midnight said the number of dead would reach 125 men.

Tacoma, Wash., July 10.—A special to the Ledger from Auburn, Washington, says:

A man supposed to be Tracy is lying concealed 50 feet from the railroad track near the bridge crossing White river at the mouth of Soulse creek. He was seen there an hour ago by a rancher named Dolly. He has a commanding position. Sheriff Zimmerman and other officers are arranging for a flank movement.

By Associated Press.

Seattle, Wash., July 10.—A special from Kent says:

Tracy the notorious Oregon convict was at the home of E. M. Johnson, two miles southeast of this place Wednesday night. When he left the house he was armed with a new revolver and his 30-30 Winchester and a plentiful supply of both ammunition and provisions.

Tracy sent Johnson to Tacoma to purchase the revolver and ammunition. He threatened to exterminate Johnson's family on the least sign of treachery. The murderer seemed fagged out and talked very little about himself or his plans. While at the house he spent nearly all the time watching for his pursuers. He left the house after dark, headed either for Seattle or the Palmer cut-off.

Not only did Tracy force Johnson to buy the revolver but he made him morrow the necessary money in Kent. Johnson went to Tacoma and secured the weapon without sounding any kind of warning to the authorities. He was badly frightened. Tracy seems to have a premonition for people named Johnson. He made Louis B. Johnson at Bothwel drive him from that place to Woodland Park after he killed Deputy Sheriff Raymond at Wayne. At Fort Madison he entered the home of John Johnson and decamped with Anderson, the hired man and after leaving the Jerrals home at Benton he fled to the house of Kent Johnson.

That the murderer is becoming anxious for his safety was shown by his conduct at the house of E. M. Johnson yesterday. He seemed to realize that his exploit at Renton had reached the limit. His gayety has been replaced by the nervous excitement of a man near the end of his rope. At times he acted like one at bay. His audacious carelessness has given way to apprehension and watchfulness.

Tracy arrived at the home of Johnson at 6 o'clock Wednesday morning and at the point of a revolver forced Johnson to cook him breakfast. After finishing the meal he told Johnson to go to Tacoma and purchase two 45-caliber Colts revolvers and 100 rounds of ammunition with the threat that if he gave information to the authorities of that place he would murder the entire family. Johnson left Kent on the 7 o'clock train, returning at 4 o'clock.

While he was absent from Kent, Tracy remained in the vicinity of the home and appeared to be uneasy as if expecting a visit from the officers. Several times he went to the top of a small hill in the rear of the Johnson home and viewed the surrounding country.

Upon the return of Johnson from Tacoma Tracy ordered Mrs. Johnson to cook him enough provisions to last a week. She boiled two dozen eggs, fried bacon and gave him a large supply of sugar and flour.

Tracy [illegible] the family [illegible] until the return of [illegible] from Tacoma. He did not leave the house until after dark. Usually Tracy has engaged in bits of repartee with members of the families he has held up. This time he appeared to be excited and according to Johnson seemed very much worried. Tracy said very little during his stay at the Johnson home. Outside his demands for food and the instructions he gave Johnson regarding the kind of revolvers to purchase, he did not attempt to open a conversation with any member of the family. In several homes the outlaw has been a fondness for children. At Johnson's he paid no attention whatever to them and spent most of his time in observing persons who passed the house. Johnson has left his home and refuses to return until Tracy has been heard from. He is fearful the convict will return and carry out his threat. Johnson has read the newspaper accounts of the desperado's acts about Seattle. He describes him perfectly and Sheriff Cudhee was in conversation with Johnson for some time. He procured a good description of the outlaw and also of the firearms he has in his possession. He is certain that the officers were on a false chase to Green Lake, Wednesday night but is unable to account for the unknown man who visited the Hillman house.

Johnson speaks English poorly and it was with great difficulty Sheriff Cudhee obtained the facts necessary. He believes Johnson is telling a true story and is thoroughly convinced it was Tracy who was at the place and not a confederate to throw the officers off the track. The fact that the man upon first entering the house announced he was Tracy is evidence that the whereabouts of the convict has been established for a certainty.

He proceeded as he has done heretofore by ordering the family not to leave the room and then demanding something to eat. He told me he was Tracy when he came through the front door with his rifle in his hand," said Johnson. "He first demanded something to eat. After my wife had cooked him his breakfast he told me he wanted firearms and more ammunition. He gave me understand that his gun was loaded and that if I did not go to Tacoma and procure him the 45-caliber revolvers and 100 rounds of ammunition he would murder my wife and children. I told him I did not have the money. He then said that I had better go up to Kent and borrow it and then get the first train for Tacoma. I was afraid that if I did not do as I was told he would kill my family and I hurried to Kent and secured some money from a friend and took the 7 o'clock train. In Tacoma I found that I had only money enough to buy one gun. I returned to Kent about 4 o'clock. When I reached home I found that my wife was in a state of collapse from fright. I gave [illegible] the gun and ammunition and he seemed pleased.

"Shortly after my arrival he ordered my wife to cook [illegible] "[illegible]

dark and then took his departure down the road on one of my horses. I found the animal today. It was dark and I cannot say which way he went. One he asked the easiest way to reach Seattle. He spoke about Auburn. He appeared to be very uneasy and after I returned made several trips into the yard and looked about to see if any person was approaching.

"From his actions I believe he thought he was being pursued. During the afternoon he took up a position on a hill just in the rear of my house and watched the road. He seemed to be completely exhausted and I don't think he has had any sleep since he left Seattle and vicinity.

"I often wanted to attack him while he was at the house but was afraid he would kill some members of my family if I did so. He did not give me any opportunity to get hold of his rifle, besides the gun I bought for him he had his rifle and an old gun with a black stock. It looked like an army revolver. He told me it was not good for very much and he wanted to get rid of it. He carried a revolver in each pocket when he left the house and his rifle under his arm.

"His coat, vest and [illegible] black, the trousers being [illegible] When Tracy first came to the house and stated who he was my wife and told him we would do anything he asked us. He did not seem to pay any attention to what we said, but began to give orders. I am so afraid that he will pay a second visit to our house that I have deserted it and will not return until he has been located."

The town of Kent is alive with rumors of all kinds regarding Tracy's destination. Numerous citizens have volunteered to join the posses in search of the murderer. Armed men are appearing on the streets and great excitement reigns. Sheriff Cudhee has left for Auburn and will attempt to lead Tracy off. If he has not returned to Seattle, Cudhee believes his destination is the Palmer cut-off. Cudhee has also learned that Johnson made one statement to the effect that Tracy said he had been surrounded by more than 100 armed men at Renton but succeeded in making his escape. Also that he had secured from Johnson about $2 in silver.

NEWMEYER IN GOOD SHAPE

Burns' Men Couldn't Come Up With the Hits at the Proper Moment—Duck Keith a Good Umpire

Special to the Gazette.

Omaha, Neb., July 10.—Colorado Springs and the Rourke Quality played the game of the season this afternoon, which bounced after just 58 minutes play, a drizzle of rain forcing the game. The contest was nothing to brag of, but the people felt that they had had their money's worth. Newmeyer was in good shape, and Albaugh was the pick of the batters, with Ollie Hoy, Omaha's new outfielder, a close second. The main attraction was the Millionaire team, which boasted of Keith, Stone, Hoy, Gray, Gondman, Hughes, Stewart, Thomas, Hickey, Spalding and Albaugh. Stone was the only one who could do anything with Newmeyer, who worked two innings for Omaha. Hughes, and Albaugh, and Stone up in the third, Gondman lined to Stewart, Hickey to Albaugh, and Thomas popped to first, and Albaugh popped to Newmeyer. In the fourth Stewart lined to Gondman, Hughes popped to Newmeyer, and Stone popped to Albaugh. In the fourth Omaha made a tally on the strength of two hits, one a long drive to left field, and a wild pitch to Albaugh. The Millionaires made their tally in the sixth. Albaugh made the round trip to the stand, Newmeyer walked, Gondman made their tally in the sixth. Albaugh made the round trip to the stand, Newmeyer walked, Gondman lined to Hoy, and Hughes popped to Newmeyer. Where the Sick and Destitute May Find Relief

Another New Sanatorium Is Already Started by the Wing Settlement Ass'n

While various interests in Colorado Springs philanthropic and otherwise are planning for large institutions for the relief of suffering among rich and poor there has been started in the city a work that promises to become with a little more time one of the most important and far reaching institutions yet suggested.

It is a sanatorium work undertaken and now being carried on by an organization known as the Wing Settlement association not for money or for glory but for the good of the community for the relief of suffering where it occurs among those who in addition to being victims of physical misfortune, are wholly without financial resources.

Two of the citizens of Colorado Springs the same two who are always at the forefront among those to step up with aid where aid is needed are already giving of their funds to aid this work. When it becomes a little better known it will doubtless prove to be one upon which the public as a whole will look as a refuge long needed in Colorado Springs by the people for whom it is intended.

It is now conducting its work in two small cottages near Cheyenne park.

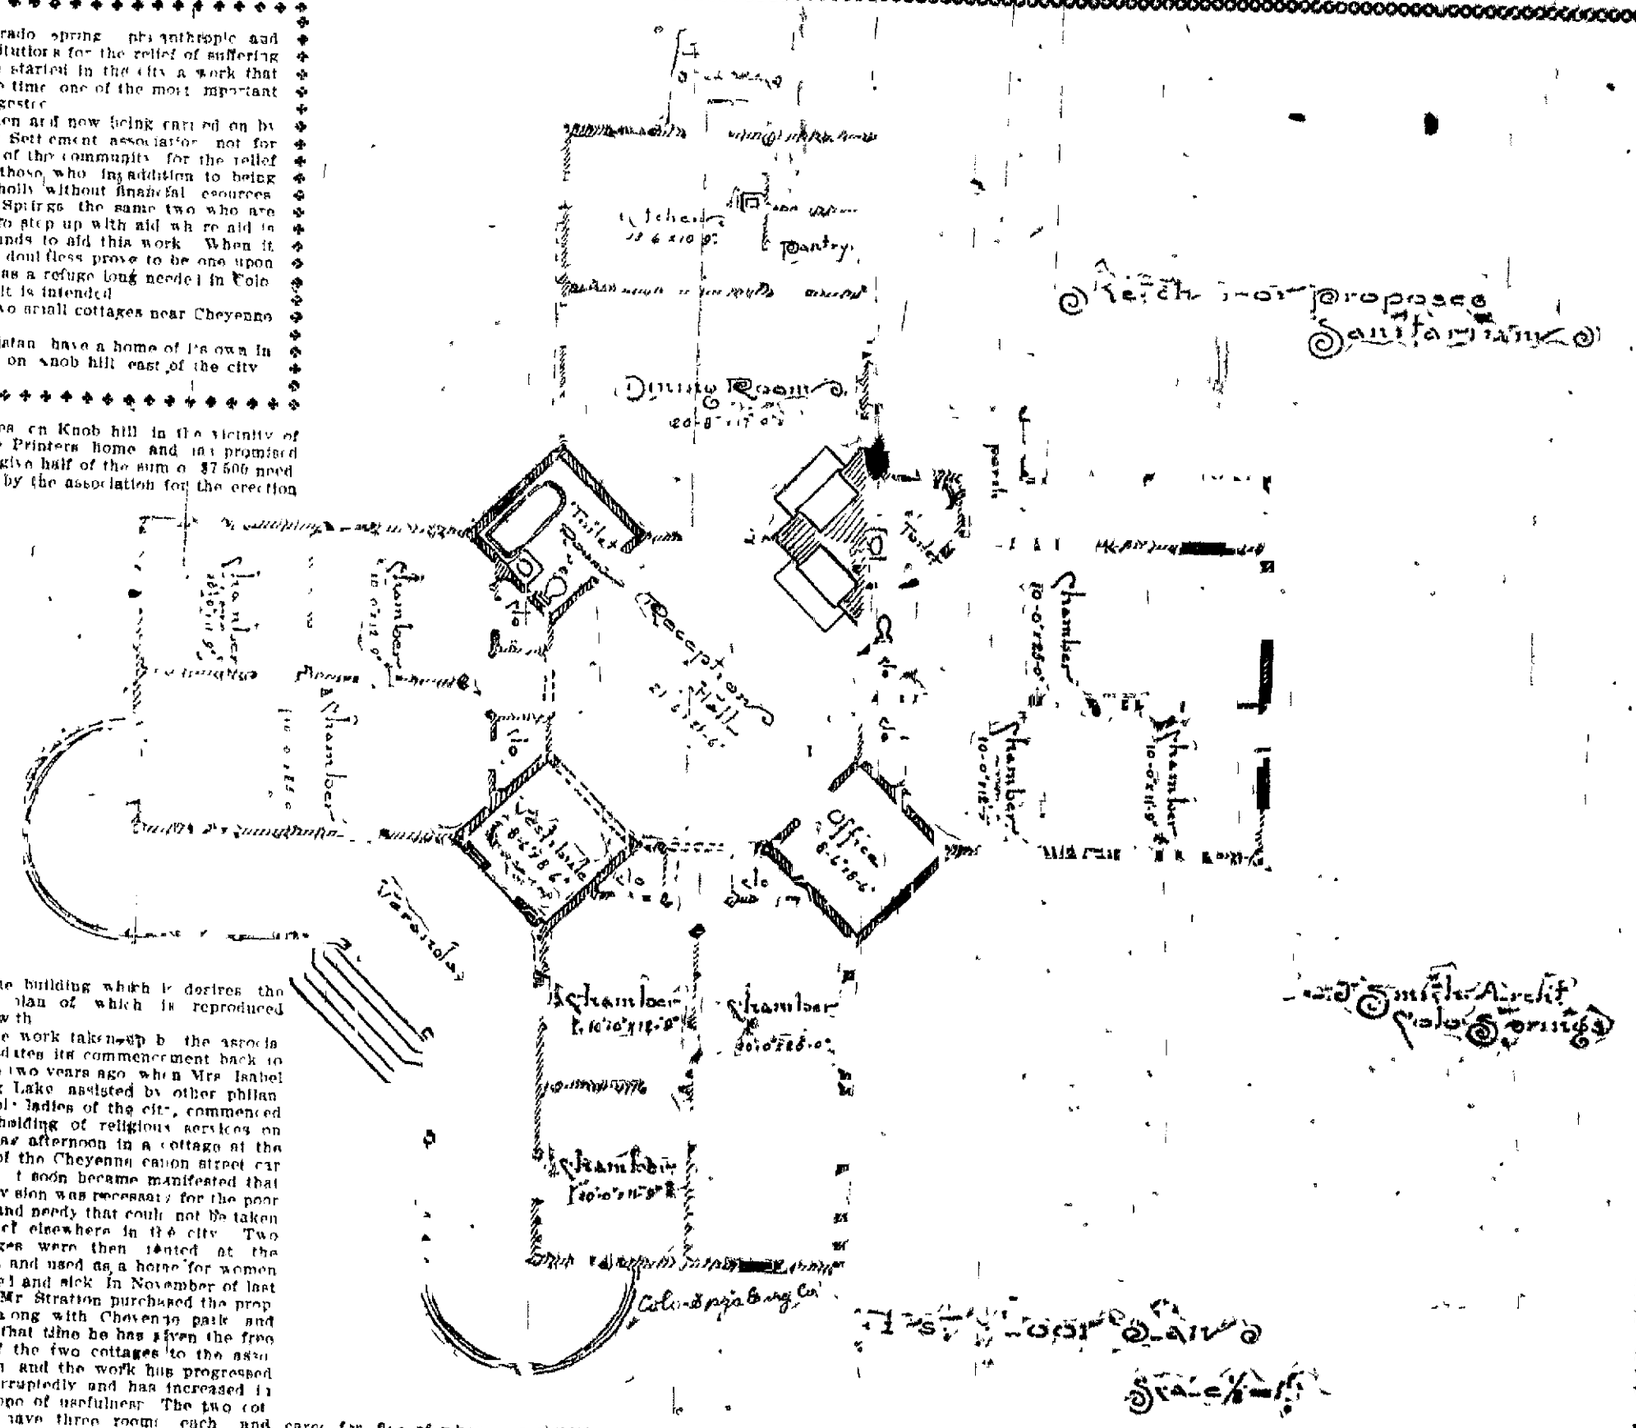
It will at a day probably not far distant have a home of its own in one of the most beautiful of locations on Knob hill east of the city.

Although few people are aware of it Colorado Springs now includes among her institutions one that has for a long time been badly needed a free hospital and sanatorium—an institution founded in the name of humanity by people who are willing to put forth effort for humanity's sake for the relief of humanity where humanity suffers and can have recourse to relief of no other kind.

Its work is being conducted at the present time and has been for some weeks past in two small cottages between Broadmoor casino and Cheyenne park, those cottages being at the disposal of those who have started this noble work through the generosity and public spirit of Mr. W. S. Stratton.

Through the generosity of General William Palmer and also of Mr. Stratton both of which gentlemen are identified with every movement for the advancement of the interests of Colorado Springs in any way whatever, the work will at a date probably not far distant be carried on in a building of its own located in one of the most beautiful spots that could possibly be selected free from debt and so capacious for cases coming within the scope of its work as to permit of its growing.

The Wing Settlement association is a corporation organized under the laws of Colorado in February last by Mrs. Isabel Wing Lake, Mrs. Helen H. Labrie and Mrs. Ella H. Phelps and backed by many of the best men and women of the city is conducting the work at the present time and will prosecute it as rapidly as possible to the point where it can avail itself of the offers which have come to it already and which may come to it in the future. Women and children who are destitute and sick are to be cared for by the institution which this association is fostering. Its work is now being conducted in two cottages, which are furnished without rent by Mr. Stratton having been bought by him in connection with his purchase of property for the Cheyenne park site, and maintained from month to month by funds provided jointly by Mr. Stratton and General W. J. Palmer. General Palmer has also donated to the work a most beautiful site at the corner of Pike's Peak and Logan avenues on Knob hill in the vicinity of the Printers' home and has promised to give half of the sum of $7,500 needed by the association for the erection of the building which it desires, the floor plan of which is reproduced herewith.



The work taken up by the association dates its commencement back to some two years ago when Mrs. Isabel Wing Lake assisted by other philanthropic ladies of the city, commenced the holding of religious services on Sunday afternoon in a cottage at the end of the Cheyenne canon street car line. It soon became manifested that a provision was necessary for the poor sick and needy that could not be taken care of elsewhere in the city. Two cottages were then rented at the canon and used as a home for women in need and sick. In November of last year Mr. Stratton purchased the property along with Cheyenne park and since that time he has given the free use of the two cottages to the association and the work has progressed uninterruptedly and has increased in its scope of usefulness. The two cottages have three rooms each and lately have had some repairs made upon them. A deaconess is in charge and at present 12 people are being cared for, five of whom are children. No woman will be taken who is able to pay her expenses even at such an inexpensive place as the W. C. T. U. quarters of this city. Only $1 a week is charged by the association and not even that if the party is unable to pay. The object of charging this nominal sum is to stimulate industry and reduce pauperism.

Since the work was actually started, the number of cases has increased, until the two cottages and two tents have been filled and the association is now in need of more tents to accommodate numerous cases awaiting attention.

In order to facilitate the business of the Wing Settlement association it was incorporated in February last, as stated, with Mrs. Isabel Wing Lake president, Mrs. Ella M. Phelps, first vice president, Mrs. Martha C. Colburn, second vice president, and Mrs. W. T. Turley, third vice president. The trustees are Rev. W. H. W. Boyce, J. R. Kinney, A. J. Smith, General Marcus E. Sherman and Rev. Edward Braislin. The secretary is Mrs. A. M. Yeats. Dr. Mary B. Tuttle is treasurer and physician in charge. The building committee is composed of Mrs. F. H. Labrie and Dr. Tuttle.

Mrs. Lake is well known in this city for her strenuous works in charity and social purity. She has given lectures through the state of Minnesota upon the subject of social purity. She is a member of the national W. C. T. U. Dr. Tuttle, who has charge of the patients, is a graduate of Johns Hopkins, and has had wide experience with hospital work.

The lot for the new building is located at the corner of Pike's Peak and Logan avenues, fronting 165 feet on Pike's Peak and 75 feet on Logan. The property is on the Knob hill car line, near the Tesla experimental station and Printers' home. The sum of $900, given to the association in the winter, was used in the construction of a four room cottage upon the donated lot. The rental of this cottage is being used by the association in assisting unfortunate women and families.

The new building, as stated, will cost, according to present plans, $7,500. One-half of this has been pledged by General Palmer upon the stipulation that the other half be raised before work is commenced. The building will be constructed in the shape of an "X," and will have accommodation for 50 patients. One wing will be devoted to a free dispensary; another to old women and children, another to tubercular patients, and another to the convalescing. The basement will be fitted up into rooms in which instruction in various subjects helpful to women will be given. The aim of the association is not only to help the sick, but to send them back home when they become well with some knowledge of a useful occupation. Some of the occupations that will be taught are stenography, dressmaking and cooking. Plans for the raising of the needed sum, $3,750, to commence work upon the new building are being discussed and will soon be carried out.

The association is to employ Miss Wilson as an additional district nurse to assist in taking care of the poor sick to the city. Miss Wilson has been the superintendent of the Wesley hospital of Chicago.

Miss Southey will arrive on the 19th instant and aid in city missionary work and in ascertaining who are the worthy in need of charity.

In September, the association will have Miss Threshingers to give a series of addresses in this city for the benefit of charity. Miss Threshingers is the daughter of an Indian chief, and her lectures are upon the Indian. She wears the costume of her race.

Elks Are Planning for Big Street Fair

The members of the local lodge of Elks are almost unanimous in favor of holding a street fair in this city next month and there is practically no doubt that one will be held at that time, especially as there is no flower carnival to be held this year and the fair would be about the only event of the season of a public nature.

Elkdom No. 309 is always public spirited and if the proposed street fair is given it will be as much for the benefit of Colorado Springs as for the lodge itself, which does everything in its characteristic open-hearted and open-handed way. No one who attended the street fair last year was disappointed with what he saw there and the proposed fair of this season will far outshine that of last season.

The matter is in the hands of a committee consisting of M. G. Barnes, S. N. Nye and W. W. Wood who are working hard with a view to its accomplishment. No details of the plans are ready for publication but it is expected that they will be forthcoming within a few days.

Campbell of this city spoke during the evening. All the talks were upon uniform and endowment ranks and the Lithobons Sisters and such lodge matters in general. The flourishing condition of the order in Colorado was brought out in several of the addresses.

Henley, July 9.—In spite of a dull threatening morning, exceptionally large crowds assembled here today to witness the second day's racing of the Henley regatta. Interest in the meeting was vastly enhanced by the danger of the Diamond sculls and the Grand Challenge cup crossing the Atlantic. Americans and Canadians were present in force to support their respective competitors. Henry White, secretary of the United States embassy, and Mrs. White were present to see their son Jack row. Not in the Eton boat for the contest for the Ladies' challenge plate. Several other members of the embassy accompanied Mr. and Mrs. White. The wind blew directly off the Bucks shore giving the boats on that station great advantage. Some experts estimated that the station on the Bucks side was worth a full length.

Like yesterday the racing began at 12:30 p. m. The first contest was the fourth heat for the Grand Challenge cup. Although the London Rowing club had the Bucks station and rowed in excellent form, Leander led all the way. London's spurt towards the finish proving fruitless. The time was very fast considering the wind supporting the generally accepted view that nobody knows what reserve power is reserved by the Leander until they are hard pressed. The half mile time was two minutes 31 seconds. The mile was done in five minutes 30 seconds. This opened the way for what was generally regarded as the most important event of the regatta—the Canadians' contest with third Trinity, the crack Cambridge crew, accepted by all as the British champions in the heats for the Grand Challenge cup.

In the fourth heat for the Challenge cup Leander Rowing club beat London Rowing club by a length. Time, 7 minutes 8 seconds.

In the fifth heat for the Grand Challenge cup, third Trinity, Cambridge, beat the Argonaut Rowing club of Toronto by a length and a quarter. Time, 7 minutes 11 seconds.

The race was close and exciting to Fawley court. The Argonaut led to that point, half the distance, when third Trinity caught up, took command and finished in the splendid time of 7 minutes 11 seconds. The Canadians even when they were passed, hung on in a most spirited fashion and spurted the earlier. But there were handicapped by the fact that they row the Bucks. The time for the half mile was 2 minutes 27 seconds. Fawley court was passed in 2 minutes 21 seconds.

Rotherstown struck 40 for the first minute and raced none and none. At Fawley court third Trinity forged a quarter of a length to the front, rowing grandly. The collegians drew away gradually, amidst the greatest excitement. The Argonauts were loudly cheered at the finish.

In the third heat for the Thames challenge cup Trinity hall, Cambridge, beat Trinity, Dublin, by a quarter of a length. Time, 7 minutes 20 seconds.

In the fourth heat for the Thames challenge cup the Royal School of Mines Boat club beat the Thames Rowing club by three-quarters of a length. Time, 7 minutes 4 seconds.

In the second heat for the Silver goblets the Lion of Craven and St. Mark's, London Rowing club easily beat a pair of the Reading Rowing club. Time, 8 minutes 11 seconds.

After the lunch intervals, the four heats for the Thames challenge cup were rowed in a downfall of rain which sent the summer clad picnickers in search of shelter. The School of Mines got clear away from the start and kept the Thames oarsmen in hand the whole distance.

In the third heat for the Ladies' challenge plate, Eton beat Christ church, Oxford, easily. Time, 7 minutes 20 seconds.

The third heat for the Thames challenge cup was a great struggle. The Irishmen would have won but for their disadvantage of station. The Dublin crew got off first and still led at Fawley court, after which Cambridge gradually drew level. A neck and neck race ensued and the Englishmen won by a narrow margin.

Henley, July 9.—In the fourth heat for the Ladies' challenge plate, University college, Oxford, beat Radley school by two lengths. Time, 7 minutes 33 seconds.

In the ninth heat for the Diamond sculls R. H. Etherington-Smith, Leander Boat club, beat J. Beresford, Kensington Rowing club, easily. Time, 8 minutes 58 seconds.

SANTA FE TAKES LEASES

F. J. Caley Will Work the Property--May Redeem the Good Will Temple Property--Many Shipments by Lessees and Others.

(Special to the Gazette.)

Cripple Creek, July 10. The Atlantic Mines corporation has granted a two-years lease on the Santa Fe ground to show of Squaw mountain to F. J. Caley. A royalty of 15 per cent is reserved for. The lessee will at once commence work, and will sink the shaft an additional 100 feet below the present depth of 350 feet. There is some ore in the shaft and it is thought that ore will be broken during the process of sinking. Mr. Caley, the new lessee, has worked the property before and is a competent practical miner. About two years ago a rich ore shoot was opened in the Santa Fe, but water interfered with mining operations. When the additional 100 feet has been attained the shaft of the vein will be explored.

Davis & Ogden, operating on the Gold Coin, will send one carload of ore to Denver tomorrow. The shipment will consist of 20 tons of low grade ore.

Chicago parties who have taken a lease on the Will Temple Gold Mining Company are attempting to get a lease of the company in shape so that work may be resumed on the property. The gold record of the district. A special meeting was held in the city and the customers paid a visit to the property. COLORADO SPRINGS MINING STOCK EXCHANGE

Colorado Springs, July 10.—The mining stock market today was active and characterized, as it was yesterday by sensational weakness in Elkton stocks. Trading was about the same in the mines but set a mark the day before and in the prospects it was much better. Prices were inclined to be higher, and the demand for shares seemed to be much stronger than it has been. Elkton opened fractionally lower at 47½, and declined to 46 at which price there was a good deal of selling. This weakness was due to the fact that the mine is now experiencing some trouble with water, and although the management asserts that the difficulty is only a temporary one, there is much apprehension felt. 33 Paso was in some demand at 51½. Those shares are building their tunnels better than any others on the list. Isabella was lower at 26½ and Lexington sold 1,000 lower. Portland was slightly lower at $1.35 and Work left yesterday for [illegible]. The features in the prospects depart mentally were limited to a number. Little Bessie attracted some notice by selling to the amount of 1,000 shares, but the price weakened off from 3½ to 3½. Sphere Eclipse was stationary at 3. In the condition for Avalon was a trifle to the amount of 11,000 shares at 1½ per share, right at 1½ and N. was active, but [illegible] low, at [illegible].

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.

New York, July 10.—There was an irregular opening to the whole list, which soon developed into weakness affecting both the railway and industrial lists with very few exceptions. There was little in the way of news to account for the market's tendency, and it may be put down to the caution on the part of traders engendered by the uncertainty as to the result of the government crop report to be published this afternoon, also to the fact that in some quarters the July corn option corner created some uneasiness, and furthermore to the feeling that the market was entitled to some reaction after the pronounced strength which has shown of late. On the decline, however, renewed purchases took place, particularly in such stocks as Missouri Pacific and Sugar, which advanced very sharply, especially the latter, which gained six points from our level of the forenoon. These two issues combined with the strength and great activity in New York Central, created a more confident feeling and caused a rally in the late afternoon. The United States Steel issues were notably active at higher prices. C. F. & I. was very erratic, while Pressed Steel continued to advance. Money rates especially for call remained at yesterday's level, and exchange rates are that the government crop report will show a satisfactory condition.

CHICAGO GRAIN & PROVISIONS.

Chicago, July 10.—Wheat—Liverpool unchanged to ¼c higher, Paris ¾ to 1c lower, Antwerp unchanged. Clearances, 348,000. Considering the fine weather here and west, with prospect of its continuing, wheat was fairly steady. There was some little selling induced both by the weather and by the expectation of government report this afternoon. But in the main wheat in this market is in good hands and fairly well held. Expectations regarding the government report are vague. Not much change is looked for in winter wheat and a fairly high condition of the spring wheat is expected. Ideas as to the amount of wheat in farmers' hands are uncertain on account of the amount that has been fed. Broomhall reports weather in England unfavorable and there is a fair export business. Our own advices from his state and from Iowa and Nebraska bring increased complaints of damage to wheat in the shock. Taking all these conditions in connection with the fact that the world's stocks of wheat are extremely small, we are inclined to think wheat ought to be a purchase on the weak spots. Estimated cars, 35.

Corn—Clearances, 4,000. Liverpool unchanged. In the July option very little was doing and prices were apparently left to drift. The expectation of a fairly high condition of the crop in the government report, together with the improved weather made some selling of September and the deferred deliveries. The whole situation in corn is, however, so unfettered by reason of the manipulation going on that any view of the market is unreliable. Estimated cars, 240.

Oats—Market was easier on better weather. Price Current says oats some rusted and lodged and prospects above the average. We still think the crop prospects are not the only consideration in oats. The new crop will undoubtedly move with an urgent demand and the marketing of it will be little. We still think September oats are cheap and should be bought. Estimated cars, 90.

Provisions—Market is still firm and prices a little higher. Small receipts of hogs are the incentive but this is no doubt due in part to the recent unfavorable weather. Receipts at primary markets 50,000, against 74,000 last year. The market is still in the hands of packers.

COTTON MARKET.

New York, July 10.—The further slight improvement in the cotton market showed today was mainly in sympathy with a continuance of the good spot demand which has prevailed at Liverpool throughout the week resulting in sales of 15,000 bales again today, with the price up 1-32d to 5 1-32d for middling, although futures advances here only half point over yesterday. Continued dry and hot weather in the cotton belt was also a potent factor in helping the market. The advance, however, was confined within four points on the general list and six points on September from last night's quotations, with the buying mostly of a professional character.

There is nothing particularly new in the general situation not previously referred to in these reports. The continued good demand for spot cotton at Liverpool comes mostly from Manchester and continental spinners being desirous of increasing their supplies in the present uncertain outlook for the next crop and apprehension lest they may be victims later on of manipulation in the Liverpool market from a squeeze of the July or August options by the interests which are in control now of the bulk of the stocks of cotton. It is more of a weather market than anything else.

Should good general rains come within a day or two, the effect on general sentiment would be to cause rather general selling and a slump in prices.

The London Market.

By Associated Press.

New York, July 10.—Commercial Advertiser's London financial cablegram:

The market was idle pending the settlement. Kaffirs opened firm but dropped all day. Traders are still apprehensive of difficulties tomorrow, pay day, but they are less nervous than yesterday. The probabilities are that there will be a rally if tomorrow is safely passed. Consols were ¼ down to 96¾. The bull account is still heavy and there is a fear of sales by Kaffir speculators.

American stocks scarcely moved and merely reflected New York weakness closing dull, but in the street New York supported Chesapeake & Ohio and U. S. Steel common. New York depressed Anacondas by reporting the metal outlook gloomy, but copper and Rio Tintos held firm.

The market borrowed £1,000,000. The bank returns show that the market has repaid £10,000,000, half both of out of town balances and by government disbursements. Silver is strong; local buying is resumed and India is a so a buyer while supplies are scarce.

The Indian banks have reduced the bank rate from 4 to 3 per cent. Paris exchange is 25.15½; Berlin 20.47.

The Metal Market.

The London market gained 15s, closed spot £125, 10s and futures at £125, 10s. Both here and abroad the feeling was firm. Copper ruled dull locally. Denver Live Stock.

Union Stock Yards, Denver, July 10.—Cattle—The market loosened up a bit this morning and trade was active to the extent of the offerings, but on account of the continuation of light receipts fat cattle are inclined to be just a little dull at the yards these days. The market remains about steady and as a rule the few cattle that arrive find a ready sale, but they do not seem to be just what the packers are looking for, as a rule there is a great deal of beautification before the cattle really change hands, but this is the season of the year when we may expect the market to be a little dull, for the simple reason that there are but very few cattle in shape to come to market, as the feed lots have been empty for some time and the grass cattle seem to be hanging back, but one cannot blame the ranchmen for holding their cattle as long as possible, as the ranges are in good shape and cost but a very little to put a few more extra pounds of fat on them, and with the present price of beef a few more pounds is a matter of dollars and cents to them. The bulk of the offerings this morning consisted mostly of butcher stuff, including a load of very good heifers from the northern part of the state, which sold at $3.40. Three dollars and fifty cents was the top on cows today, and the same was paid for bulls. Another trainload of long horned Southerners arrived this morning and a few more trains are expected in the latter part of the week.

Hogs—Hog receipts were more liberal this morning than for several days and the market opened steady at $8.00, but closed with an easier tone. The offerings this morning were only fair and not good enough to bring the top as the highest price paid was $7.95, with the bulk selling at from $7.90 to $7.95. Eastern markets opened steady at 5c higher, but close easier.

Sheep—There were a few fresh arrivals this morning, but most of them were consigned direct to the packers, the few that went on sale selling at private terms. Eastern markets are reported steady, with a good demand for mutton and fat stuff.

Receipts—B. Henderson, drive, 560.

HAIR NATURALLY ABUNDANT

When it is Free of Dandruff, It Grows Luxuriantly.

Hair preparations and dandruff cures, as a rule, are sticky or irritating affairs that do no earthly good. Hair, when not diseased, grows naturally luxuriantly. Dandruff is the cause of nine-tenths of all hair trouble, and dandruff is caused by a germ. The only way to cure dandruff is to kill the germ, and, so far, the only hair preparation that will positively destroy that germ is Newbro's Herpicide—absolutely harmless, free from grease, sediment, dye matter or injurious drugs. It allays itching instantly, makes hair glossy and soft as silk. "Destroy the cause, you remove the effect"—dandruff.

EMPEROR WILLIAM'S WISH.

It Is that Germany Shall Be Grandly Represented at the World's Fair in St. Louis

World's Fair Ground, St. Louis, July 6.—Emperor William has expressed the wish that the German empire exhibit at the Louisiana Purchase exposition in 1904 shall be made on as large a scale to attract as much attention as any other foreign exhibit. This information comes from Joseph Brucker, resident representative of the World's Fair at Berlin. Mr. Brucker also writes that since the return of Prince Henry, the emperor's brother, from his visit to St. Louis the emperor and the German people generally have taken special interest in the World's Fair. There is also a marked improvement in the industrial conditions in Germany now as compared with one year ago, and the manufacturers of the country have work and to the importance of a comprehensive exhibit of their products at the great fair. The German exhibit in the department of fine arts is from its present stage of organization and it is certain to be the largest and finest art exhibit ever made by that country at any exposition.

"HOUSE OF HOO-HOO."

An Elaborate Object Lesson Showing the Architectural Utility of Wood Construction at the World's Fair.

World's Fair Grounds, St. Louis, July 6.—The "House of Hoo Hoo" is the corporate name of an organization made of lumbermen, railroad traffic officials, lumber newspaper men and sawmill supply men. Its existence is due to the fact that different bodies of lumbermen in various parts of the country almost simultaneously took up the question of building a clubhouse on the grounds of the Louisiana Purchase Exposition to be held in St. Louis in 1904. It is the combination of the ideas and plans of the different bodies. The plan and scope are far reaching. The main idea is to construct a building on the grounds of the exposition for the accommodation of lumbermen. It will be fitted up with all comforts and conveniences. The plans of the building are now in the hands of architects.

The ground floor is to be in the form of the symbolic letter H, which has been chosen partly because it thoroughly utilizes the space. The construction will be entirely of wood and staff, and it will serve as an object lesson to the visitors at the exposition in showing the architectural utility of wood construction.

In the finishing of the building the various lumber associations will be asked to take part. The manufacturers of red gum have already applied for the use of rooms in which they can demonstrate to the public that this most despised of woods is a beautiful building material and that it has not, when properly treated, the undesirable traits usually attributed to it. It is the intention to put in gum flooring, to wainscot the walls, panel the ceiling and build a mantel mill of gum, and each have in place a fine piece of gum furniture to show what can be done by furniture makers with the wood.

It is expected the Yellow Pine, Poplar, Red Wood, Cypress and other lumber associations will each take a room and furnish it with their various commodities so as to show the highest art of the interior finish. Treatment of wood for interior finish. There will be an exhibition for awards in this building but it will be a school at which every lumberman and lumber consumer may see the finishing and treatment of woods with which he is not familiar.

The building will be luxuriously furnished. Besides the usual reception rooms and parlors there will be a reading and conversation room and a billiard and pool room and possibly others. It is probable that many lumber conventions will be held at St. Louis during the time a large room will be provided for that purpose which may serve as a temporary hall if necessary. A special department in charge of a lady will be set apart for women. In this the wives and daughters of the members are to entertain their friends and lady visitors.

All told the cost will require the raising of about $40,000. It has been decided to have a membership of 9,999 and to place the membership fee at $9.99. The membership fee will cover the liability of the members, so there will be no dues.

A man need not be a member of the Concatenated Order of Hoo Hoo to join this club, but it is necessary that all members come within the eligibility clause of the order. This will mean that all members will be lumbermen, railway traffic men, lumber newspaper men or sawmill supply men. It is likely that many members will take out more than one membership and the privilege will be given at about the time the doors are opened to in some way transfer the surplus memberships. As an instance of this one large wholesaler has announced it is his intention to take out a number of memberships and present them to retail dealers who have been long time customers of his, believing this such a gift would be appreciated.

The details of the plan have not yet been worked out, but there is no doubt that a member can obtain full value for what his membership costs him by making use of the club.

WORLD'S FAIR CONSTRUCTION

World's Fair Grounds, St. Louis, July 6.—The wonderfully prosperous condition of the iron and steel market and the consequent difficulty of getting orders filled quickly is hampering to some extent the work on the world's fair. This trouble has all been foreseen by the exposition officials however and in the designs for buildings they have eliminated the use of steel so far as possible. Wood trusses and uprights are being used in all temporary buildings but heavy steel rods are necessary to tie the trusses together and brace the buildings at many points. Hundreds of tons of steel will be thus used. Even now part of the work on some of the buildings is being delayed. The roof trusses of the great Varied Industries building and the Textile building are ready to hoist into place as soon as delivery is made of steel to do so, a month ago. While the delay is not considered serious it shows what might have been had steel construction been adopted for the buildings generally.

DELAYS ARE DANGEROUS

World's Fair Grounds, St. Louis, July 6.—A visitor to the publicity department of the world's fair this week tells a somewhat amusing story of a fellow traveler he met on the Northern Pacific railway coming from the west. The conversation drifted to the postponement of the world's fair to 1904. The westerner remarked: "To tell the truth, stranger, I can say that it is practically for the reason that one of the sweetest of western roses has promised to marry me provided we spent our honeymoon at the world's fair. All arrangements were perfected for the wedding day and now she positively refuses to carry out the plan until 1904. There's a mighty fine fellow who also has his eye on her, and as my business keeps me most of the time in Chicago, well, you know, often de ways are dangerous."

JOHN L. GEHR

Special to the Gazette

Florence, July 10.—John L. Gehr of this city, organizer for the fifth District of the United Mine Workers of America embracing Colorado, Wyoming, Utah and New Mexico, has been called to Charleston, W. Va., by President John Mitchell of the association to assist him in his labors in that state. It is said that there are 100,000 bituminous coal miners in West Virginia, who are showing considerable uneasiness as to the prevailing labor conditions and that they favor a sympathetic strike with the anthracite miners in Pennsylvania. Gehr is recognized by the mine workers' officials as a thoroughly competent man in handling the troubles of the laboring classes and Mitchell telegraphed for him to come at once. It is said that if the labor troubles in West Virginia are not settled satisfactorily to the miners a general strike amongst them all will be called. Gehr says that his presence in West Virginia is to explain fully the situation in the Colorado fields, and he thinks he will be asked to call the miners of the west out on a strike. The telegram was short, merely requesting him to leave at once. He believes that the eastern labor troubles are far from being settled, and that the strike will be extended to Colorado districts. Gehr has always been successful in this district in bringing the men and their employers together on a satisfactory agreement. He will not return to Colorado until his duties are ended in the east.

A Santa Fe freight train was derailed at Portland last night by the spreading of the switch rails. The engineer is said to have made a fast run to pass a Rio Grande extra.

DENVER AND LOCAL NEWSPAPERS---CONTRASTED TO VISITORS.

THE Denver papers are making their annual attempt to get a few straggling subscribers among the tourists in Colorado Springs. They have ceased to bother the regular residents but they rely upon the credulity of the uninformed tourists that circulation is which is of such prime importance in an advertising way to a Denver newspaper.

By accidental chance this collector tackled a Colorado Springs man for a subscription and the solicitor got this rebuke in reply: WHAT TAKE A DENVER PAPER HERE? AS IT IS WITH DENVER SQUABBLES AND PERSONAL FIGHTS WITH OBNOXIOUS ADVERTISING AND REVOLTING ELECTRIC BELT PICTURES AND VARICOCELE ON PALMED OFF ON THE COUNTRY PEOPLE AS A COMPLETE NEWSPAPER? NEVER! NOT SO LONG AS WE HAVE A FIRST CLASS, HIGH TONED, CLEAN AND PROGRESSIVE NEWSPAPER LIKE THE GAZETTE THAT IS SO EXCELLENT THAT IT DAILY DELIVERS MORE PAPERS TO REGULAR SUBSCRIBERS IN DENVER THAN THE TOTAL OF ALL DENVER NEWSPAPERS COMBINED DELIVERED TO REGULAR SUBSCRIBERS IN COLORADO SPRINGS. NO PERSON IN COLORADO SPRINGS THINKS OF READING A DENVER PAPER BUT A TENDERFOOT, A SENSATION MONGER OR A NEWSPAPER TERRORIST!

"FOURTH CLASS BUSINESS MEN."

IT WAS the acme of impossible with the pelt of the reckless tongue to compel even the plain English of good old fashioned Anglo-Saxon words in a manner to mislead friend and foe alike. The Gazette. The evening paper does not feel very kindly toward the Gazette and it has publicly shown its prejudice towards the new by its attempt to discredit it.

It thought the evening paper undertook to show that in some mysterious way the Gazette reflected upon the business men of the community and the class of tourists who visit this place! The purpose of such a man as Senator is too apparent to deceive anyone and the words of the Gazette were too plain and their meaning too manifest to be distorted in any such way.

No one has a greater interest for the business men of this city than the Gazette or a more prominent belief in the city's resources, advantages and future possibilities. The Gazette has done much upon these subjects a thousand times and just now is endeavoring to do it almost to the extent of losing and will hawk business men of this city to make certain that this city shall make the most of its opportunities and shall not be sidetracked or left behind in the march of progress.

At a time when there is so real need for such an effort, and when every enterprising business community and people of the west are rising upon a struggle for preeminence along the line, it all becomes any part of our own citizens to block the march of progress or from selfish and unworthy motives to misrepresent the words or actions of any of their fellow citizens.

What the Gazette plainly said yesterday morning was that the question to be determined was whether this city is all go forward for years to come or whether it shall be sidetracked and thus (if sidetracked) forever to remain an inferior town for cheap tourists and a third class city for fourth class business men.

If the editor of the Telegraph had heard the plain speeches by the leading bankers and others of this city at the first meeting of the Business Men's club he probably would better appreciate the danger of just this kind of sidetracking.

THE BANNER TOURIST SEASON.

WE GAIN an impression of the success or failure of our tourist business from the crowds we see on the streets, from the people we talk with and from our own individual experience. But all of these sources of information are more or less misleading. The tourist business is a business like any other, and the only safe and reliable measure of its volume is in official and unprejudiced statistics.

Among the best information that is furnished in regard to our summer visitors is that published by the various railroad companies in regard to the number of tickets sold or the number of passengers carried into the state while of almost equal value are the figures showing the number of passengers carried from one place to another within the state limit.

When therefore a man like Mr. T. J. Sugan, ticket and general passenger and ticket agent of the Denver and Rio Grande railroad comes in who is in a position to know what he is talking about asserts that this is the banner tourist season from the standpoint of the railroads, his opinion is worthy of consideration and outweighs that of any dozen men who are guided simply by casual observation and experience.

There is indeed no need for anyone to worry about the number of people that are coming into Colorado or that are being carried about the state by the railroads. What is far more important is the fact that they are properly entertained and that such an impression is made upon them that they will join the company of those that return year after year as our summer visitors or better still, become permanent residents among us and share in the development of the resources of our wonderful state.

HELP THE CHAUTAUQUA.

THE NATIONAL CHAUTAUQUA is one of those institutions that will if successful bring many thousands of visitors to Colorado Springs and contribute greatly in many ways to the prosperity of this city.

But at the beginning it must depend very largely upon local patronage and support. Outsiders are not apt to appreciate highly a summer school that appears to be neglected by local students, and our new Chautauqua must gain at least some appearance of success before it will be able to command a proper share of outside patronage.

It is to be hoped therefore that there will be a generous response to the initiative efforts of the Chautauqua management, and that Colorado Springs will be able to supply sufficient ticket buyers and lecture listeners to give the new assembly a good send off, and to impress visitors with the idea that we have a good thing and know it.

Such efforts are sure to have important results and will bring a rich harvest in future years.

The class of visitors that this state can well dispense with is composed of pickpockets, bunco sharpers and confidence men who are beginning to make a regular practice of haunting the crowded routes of summer travel. An earnest concerted effort should be made to put a stop to this growing evil and to make Colorado a good state for such rogues to keep away from. El Paso county has set the example in this matter.

[illegible] for the Elks undertake to do it will be well done, and [illegible] to believe that the proposed street [illegible] the rule.

THE NEXT CONGRESS.

IT IS generally conceded that the Republicans will retain the control of the house of representatives after the next congressional election. There is nothing in the general political situation to warrant the belief that the people of the country will make a change. The general condition of the country remains satisfactory and there is nothing in either the political or the business world that can be depended upon to turning out the Republicans and putting the Democrats in their place.

If this than that the party in opposition has neither the principles nor the leadership that fits it to assume control of the national administration. Its search for an issue that would take the place of the one that have been successively discredited and repudiated by the people of the country has been utterly futile. The declaration of war in the Philippines following the empty disclosure of the Philippines civil government bill has shown the use made of trying to make a national issue out of the general Philippine question and no sane politician believes that a national election can be won on the water cure issue and against the eliminate villification of the United states army.

For the year at least and probably for much longer the Republican party will retain the control of both houses of congress and in the councils of that party will be the determination to be taken upon all matters of national policy.

It is therefore supreme folly for Colorado or any other state to try to protect its own interests or to influence the course of national affairs by sending to congress representatives or senators who whatever their ability or character can do nothing more than vote with the minority and assist in futile efforts to block proposed legislation.

An immediate amount of benefit to local interests might be accomplished by a united Colorado delegation to congress composed of Republicans who would give their earnest assistance in furthering the general principles and policies of that party as set forth by McKinley, Roosevelt and other broad minded leaders but who would stand with other western Republican senators and representatives unfalteringly for every measure of benefit to us and against every measure likely to injure us.

The great measures of national policy concerning which there is a serious difference of opinion are those that vitally concern Colorado and the western states. The privilege of electing members entitled to participate and be heard in the Republican caucuses is of inestimable value to us at the present time and it is the height of folly for our people to throw away this advantage.

WELL DIRECTED BENEFICENCE.

THE COLBURN'S gift of a thousand dollars to the Colorado Springs High school library is an example of well directed beneficence and an illustration of the way in which a comparatively small sum of money may be made to accomplish results of incalculable magnitude.

There are countless opportunities of this sort to be found, particularly in the newer parts of our country and it is always a pleasure to have one's attention directed to the frequent recurring instances in which wealthy men of this state show their appreciation of what constitutes the safest and most profitable investment for their surplus capital.

PRESIDENT GOMPERS'S VISIT.

THE visit of President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor to Colorado at this time is interesting in view of the recent attempt to bring all the labor unions of Colorado into the Socialist party via the Western Labor Union. President Gompers is naturally averse to such a proceeding which will if persisted in divide the labor forces into two more or less antagonistic camps.

It remains to be seen how much real strength the Western Labor union can command, and to what extent it will be able to rally the trades unions to its support. The great miners union one of the strongest if not the strongest in the states of Colorado, Montana and Idaho is unquestionably committed to the new movement but this cannot be said unless the new Socialist Labor party is able to gain numerous adherents among the unions that have hitherto been opposed to making political adherence and political action a test of unionism.

The events that have taken place since the organization of the Western Labor union do not tend towards a belief in the great strength of that body and in its prospects of success in what it has undertaken.

President Gompers will undoubtedly be able to size up the situation pretty accurately at the end of his Colorado trip and the public would be glad to know what conclusions are reached by him as a result of it.

Both Secretaries Gage and Shaw have tried to keep down the surplus in the past fiscal year, which closed the first of July by the purchase of bonds. That they did not succeed is demonstrated by the fact that the year closed with $220,630,022 in the treasury. This is the largest surplus ever recorded in the treasury. During that time the receipts of the government exceeded the expenditures by over $80,000,000. By the abolition of the war taxes the receipts of the coming year will be cut down over $70,000,000, but that tremendous sum is likely to be made up by the normal increase in customs and internal revenue collections, due to the steadily growing consumption of the country.

According to an American speaker at an English banquet, Ambassador Choate is a possible candidate for the American presidency. And so is any other American.

OPEN PARLIAMENT.

A LETTER FROM SENATOR BUCKLIN ON THE BUCKLIN BILL.

Grand Junction, Colo., July 9, 1902.

To the Editor of the Gazette: In your editorial of July 6 I notice an inaccuracy that I am sure you will be willing to correct as soon as your attention is called to it. No paper in the state has been fairer in its treatment of all public questions than the Gazette.

The inaccuracy to which I refer is where you state that any county making the experiment that is putting the Australian tax into local operation must open a double set of books, one for general and the other for local tax records.

Such double set of books would be necessary, but on the contrary less bookkeeping would be required under the operation of the Australian tax amendment than at present. The property taxed for state purposes would, under the operation of the amendment, include all property taxed for local purposes and therefore but one listing and assessment of property would still be required. The only change being that a portion of the property now required to be listed for one purpose would not be taxed for local purposes. The assessor would make but one book by now using both the existing and the local taxes he would extend the aggregate assessed property not exempt for local purposes, at the rates fixed by the local levies but on the exempt property no extension of local taxes would be made. Such column would simply be left vacant, that is all. This would be a bookkeeping of both a gain and a loss, neither.

I understand that some of the assessors of El Paso county who have not investigated the matter think that under the amendment the people of any county would have the power of changing the method of taxing mines and mining [illegible]. Under the operation of the amendment the people of any county would have the power of changing the law which provides the method of assessing and taxing any kind of property. If the law required mining property to be assessed by a tax on its output instead of at its full cash value, then under the operation of the amendment it would still be taxed on the output only. In other words the Australian amendment being an exemption measure and not a tax measure does not change the system of valuing or listing the property. It in the slightest particular. Under it a portion of the improvements of the mines might be exempt from local taxes. If [illegible] value of the producing mines would still be fixed by the [illegible] on the output as at present. The [illegible] of the law [illegible] the system of valuing the property but the amendment does give the people of any county the power to change it. I trust you will [illegible] that question.

The Public Debt

(Kansas City Star.)

The treasury statement for the fiscal year that ended Monday affords ample evidence of satisfactory progress in the reduction of the public debt. On June 30 the interest bearing debt amounted to $847 million dollars against a debt of $1,139 millions November 1, 1899. A reduction of fifty six million dollars has been made in eight months. In two years the debt has been diminished by 117 millions. It is now within eighty millions dollars of what it was just prior to the Spanish war.

The purpose of the refunding scheme has been so great that the interest charges are now lower than at any time since 1893 and the interest per capita is almost as low as at that period in the city, the time when the debt was at the minimum. In 1893 the country was paying forty millions a year in interest. Last November it was paying only twenty nine and three fourth millions owing to the refunding of a large part of the debt in 2 per cent bonds. The interest per capita which was $4.29 in 1893 went down to 75 cents in 1897 rose to 87 cents in 1899 and now has fallen to 38 cents.

In 1865 the interest bearing debt was at its maximum of 1,381 million dollars and the total debt less cash in the treasury amounted to $58 for every man, woman and child. The process of retirement went steadily on until 1893 when the interest bearing debt had fallen to 65 millions and the total debt was only $1 64 per capita. The necessity for the issue of bonds by the Cleveland administration brought the debt up again and it was further increased by the issue of the war loan. But now the process of reduction has set in again with every prospect of continuance. The country has the satisfaction of having seen an interest-bearing debt of nearly two and one-half billion dollars reduced to 847 millions and interest charges of 151 millions a year cut to less than thirty millions in a period of thirty five years which has included a small but costly war.

The French Republic.

(Florida Journal.)

Notwithstanding the withdrawal of the Waldeck Rousseau ministry, it is probable that the republic of France has never been established on a firmer basis than it is now. Of course there are communists even in France who are not easily removed from politics and there will not be a time for many years to come when the chosen rulers of France will not be in danger, but they are fewer in number than they were a few years ago, and there has been such a decided and wonderful growth in republicanism that the Royalists hardly cut any figure in French politics any more. No country in the world ever went through more bloodshed or made more desperate efforts before the abolition of hereditary rulers than has France. The reaction from monarchy to the wildest kind of license falsely called liberty in the initial efforts was so great that the French Republicans incurred the enmity of the whole world. They abolished the old nobility by the axe and the guillotine, and royalty by the same method, and then the Republicans became the oppressors. They were also abolished, and after them came the first consul, who bother the world in blood and took upon himself the throne. His star went down at Waterloo and then came the return of the Bourbon. Again royalty was wiped out and again a Napoleon came to the throne through a plebiscite. Sedan was the conqueror of this royal personage and it became necessary for the Germans, after whipping France, to defend Frenchmen against Frenchmen. After this was the genuine republic, and it has been growing in strength and strengthening its strength. And as it has come about that France may now be regarded as one of the solid republics of the world.

London and New York.

(The Outlook.)

In London the tourist may travel miles in any direction from a handsome well lighted street on the ground solidly built up and covered in New York. The streets below Fifty fourth in New York and the streets of the old city of London are quite comparable in some what similar manner, a striking contrast. The direct center of the Bank of England and the Stock Exchange in London covers a few small courts and alleys a few feet wide in some cases not above with room for a cart or barrow. A thousand times a million dollars in Cornhill, London, effect real old fashioned street. The courts are laid in interested by numerous passages and alleys do not. It is difficult for the light to penetrate the scope of the narrow alleys and reflection upon the gloomy [illegible] the office buildings are not much six or seven stories at the most. The downtown streets in New York are wider than the London streets but be found to well covered and if the buildings were not skyscrapers it is difficult to see where the light could come from. Notwithstanding the size and size of the New York buildings each one full of hundreds of active workers the streets are less crowded than the streets of London. Why? Not because there are fewer people in a given area. On the contrary the day population in business New York is immeasurably greater than in the similar district in London. Only the New York office is practically occupied. One in the office the staff have little reason to go outside during the day. They have everything they need in the building. In London on the other hand much of the activity on days in the streets would be needed in short wasted energy in New York. There is a continual rush of messenger boys with letters and telegrams or parcels running errands of people making business calls going out to lunch etc. The New York office has its letter chute at hand, much more use is made of the telephone, many business calls are paid within the one building without going outside, restaurants and barber shop are frequently within the little world of the skyscraper.

The Power of Calmness.

(Cripple Creek Times.)

During my whole life I have not had twenty four hours of happiness, wrote Prince Bismarck after four score years of power, prosperity, triumph, fame and wealth, but not one entire day of happiness. Yet this all-desired quality can grow in any climate and under any conditions. It is the symphony of a calm life.

The life of these strenuous times is such a wonderfully complex problem, such an unceasing struggle from one ambition to another, that few of us can stop long enough to become serene and calm, without which there is no happiness. Pleasure is not happiness, necessarily, quite the contrary sometimes.

Calmness—an implicit, unchangeable confidence in self and the future—is an essential factor in happiness. There sometimes entire classes of people who possess that characteristic to a severity, such as the Quakers, the various religious celebrations, and so on. Because of their calmness this subtle element reflection of inner peace, the world accords them with or labels happiness. Such people rest in almost [illegible] they are secure of their [illegible]. Worldly cares, disappointments and all the frictions of life come to them but they never allow the turmoil. The fretfulness of life, the [illegible] and worries of every day life sap one's very life and then will [illegible] to be [illegible] strength and hardihood of [illegible] which [illegible] the [illegible] need are needed to [illegible] the battle of life without succumbing to them. We must learn to [illegible] serenity in our daily living. This result [illegible] indifference. Calmness implies the ability to cast off the small pecking [illegible] from the real [illegible] troubles and to face all with a conquering community. Calmness is a [illegible] of bravery for everyday use—a kind of armor that is impervious to the darts and arrows of fortune.

The real test of a Christian teaching is calmness and then in the hour of death a great trial the practical effect of a lifetime is a haven of strength. It is no necessary to retreat from the world to gain strength in the [illegible] the calmness of the [illegible] would hardly suffer to face the conditions of our high pressure civilization.

Calmness is the antithesis of hurry which has probably killed more Americans than any other one thing. In the pursuit of wealth come and all other things that make the sum of a man's life. Amid the press of the hour of the [illegible] the calmness of the [illegible] is an ideal. Hurry, worry, hopelessness must be poised on serenity and there at the end of life the said bitter reflection of Bismarck would not be the epitaph of a life ambition.
